

Garden Life Through a Lens

Presented by the Awbury Pollinator Habitat Garden Members

The motivation of this photography show is to inspire others to go out into their garden, as well as other local garden areas, and to capture with a camera the beauty of plants and the wildlife they attract- particularly native plants, pollinating insects, regional birds.

The Awbury staff judges chose winning photographs that they feel best depict the beauty and life of the subject.

The APHG members wish to thank Awbury Arboretum for this opportunity to express our passion for the survival of native pollinators and their habitat and for asking us to participate in the "Year of the Pollinator."
