An Evening with
LUCRETIA ROBBINS
a Retrospective

Friday, November 13th 2015 | 7:00PM
at Awbury Arboretum’s Francis Cope House
One Awbury Road | Philadelphia, PA 19138

All are invited to join artist Lucretia Robbins for a reception and gallery opening at 7pm in the Parlors of Awbury Arboretum’s Francis Cope House. Lucretia will offer a presentation at 8pm outlining the ways in which her many passions - gardening, painting, teaching, and photography - are woven together and compliment one another in her life and work. The exhibition of works will be on display through January 1st, 2016, and work will be available for purchase.

Lucretia Robbins grew up on a farm in Bucks county PA where she was happiest spending her time outside. At a young age she fell in love with the flower and vegetable gardens that grew around her. Now, her paintings and photographs are inspired by forms and colors found in her own garden, gardens of friends, Chanticleer garden, and the larger world of nature. Visit www.lucretiarobbins.com for more information about Lucretia and her work.

For more information about the retrospective and exhibition, visit www.awbury.org